

why use technical surfaces?

Technical Surfaces Ltd is the largest specialist synthetic maintenance company in the UK. With a client base in excess of 7500 sites, including private tennis court owners, tennis clubs, schools, local authorities, leisure centres and universities, we are carrying out over 3000 site visits per year.

Having advocated the need for maintenance since the late 1980s, we are now considered the leading innovator within the industry, and are frequently asked to be involved with the sports governing bodies and associations in formulating maintenance procedures and programmes, as well as promoting the role of education within the industry.

Indeed, Technical Surfaces is the UK's first maintenance company to actively train our operatives to NVQ Level 2 in Sport and Play Surfaces, a qualification which demonstrates our expertise and knowledge, guaranteeing the highest standard of work on each and every project undertaken.

To qualify the effectiveness of all our processes and techniques we recently commissioned Loughborough University, using their state of the art facilities, to carry out a study on the various cleaning apparatus we use. The results confirmed the effectiveness of our systems without causing any negative effect to the carpets.

Our motto is 'Maintaining Standards' which applies not just to the work we do but to how we do business. Our works procedures are EXOR and CHAS accredited, and we also ensure that all our operatives are CRB checked and fully trained, offering you the peace of mind that your pitch and your facility are in safe hands.
